IN MEMORIAM
Ed and Carol Pritt

We thank you, Ed and Carol, for blessing us with your presence the past few years. We only regret that your lives and your days with us were so brief.

Your joyful interest in us, in other people, and most of all in each other, was and will be an inspiration to us.

We will have many pleasant memories of the time we spent with you.

The staff of Asklepios is the only true symbol of medicine. Asklepios, whose name was later changed by the Romans to Asclepius and Aesculapius, was a Greek physician. He so embodied the ideal attributes of a healer that, after his death, his countrymen spoke of him as a great departed hero. As frequently happened in Greek mythology, this exemplary healer later attained the status of a god. A cult began in Thessaly and temples were erected to Asklepios in many parts of Greece, near healing springs or on high mountains. The practice of sleeping in these sanctuaries was very common, for it was supposed that the god wrought cures or prescribed remedies to the sick in their dreams. His cult was introduced to Rome in the third century before Christ to relieve a pestilence.

Asklepios is usually represented in ancient sculpture and on coins with a staff and a serpent coiled around it. The staff or rod, originally taken from a tree, symbolizes the mystery of plant growth. By representing the vegetable kingdom, the rod incorporates the primeval force of the earth and the imperishability of life. With his rod, the divine physician was able to cure the sick and restore the life of the earth to them. The serpent, who lives in the earth, was thought to possess the reinvigorating energy of the earth and to be able to convey this energy to the sick. It therefore, along with the rod, stood for the life of the earth and its healing powers.

The caduceus, a winged staff with intertwined serpents, is the magic wand of Hermes or Mercury, the messenger of the gods and the patron of business. During the Renaissance, Hermes became associated with alchemy. In the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, the fields of alchemy, chemistry, pharmacy and medicine were not well demarcated, and the fields overlapped to some extent. Now that Hermes had entered the fields of chemistry and pharmacy via alchemy, his symbol, the caduceus, came to be regarded as a medicopharmaceutical emblem.

Thus the caduceus, the standard of the patron of business, does have a weak relationship to the field of medicine. However, it pales when compared with the staff of Asklepios as a symbol of the finest attributes of the medical profession.

AMERICAN MEDICAL STUDENT ASSOCIATION

"If you are not part of the solution, you are part of the problem . . ."

AMSA sees the medical student as a valuable resource for the solution of today's complex health care problems. Our major goal is to educate and inform students about these problems and help them become a vital force in developing programs and policies that will improve the health care system for our patients and the medical profession. To develop physicians who are not only attuned to scientific medicine but to the art and humanism of medicine as well is our dream.

AOA

75 years ago, six medical students at the College of Physicians and Surgeons in Chicago organized an honorary medical society to recognize excellence in their peers and teachers. Thus Alpha Omega Alpha was born, with the expressed purpose of "... promotion of scholarship and research in medical schools, the encouragement of a high standard of character and conduct among medical students and graduates, and the recognition of high attainment in medical science, practice, and related fields". AOA membership of the West Virginia University School of Medicine constitutes those students and faculty who have distinguished themselves in the pursuit of their medical education, or who have attained leadership in the medical profession. Members of the Class of 1978 include:

Caduceans is a social and service organization formed by the medical students' wives. Some of the programs this year included inviting speakers to relate information pertinent to medical students' wives, holding the Christmas Bazaar, serving refreshments at Freshman orientation, assisting in decorating for the Christmas dance, making favors for the pediatric ward, and serving refreshments at second and third year board exams.

Over 13,000 medical students have joined the AMA this year.

Why?

The single most important reason for the rise in medical student membership is increased participation in AMA activities. The student role in the AMA policy-making process has greatly expanded. And, as membership continues to increase, so will student input and influence.

Aside from the participatory aspects, AMA membership offers you a broad range of professional and personal benefits, including

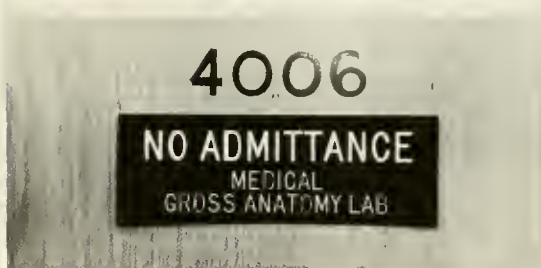

- Practice management workshops for young physicians
 - Low-cost insurance coverage
 - Physician placement service
- Publications and specialty journals
- Student loan guarantee program
- Comprehensive scientific programs
- Continuing educational programs

We congratulate you on your choice of careers and look forward to your continued contributions to a worthy and noble profession. We want to be responsive to your needs—today as a medical student and tomorrow as a physician. If you have not done so, please join with us.

We can do much more together.

Student membership dues are $15 a year. For additional information, write: Department of Membership Development, 535 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, Illinois 60610 or telephone (312) 751-6444.

SENIOR CANDIDS

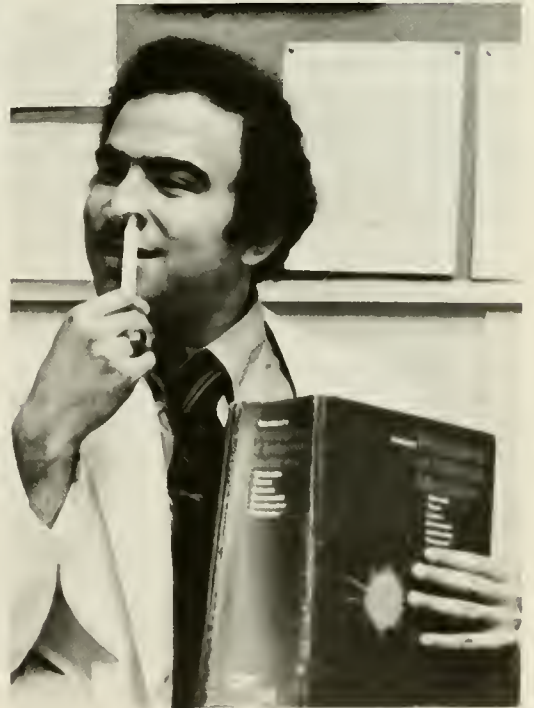

My SGOT finally went below 50!

I feel that reading at home is more valuable than taking call.

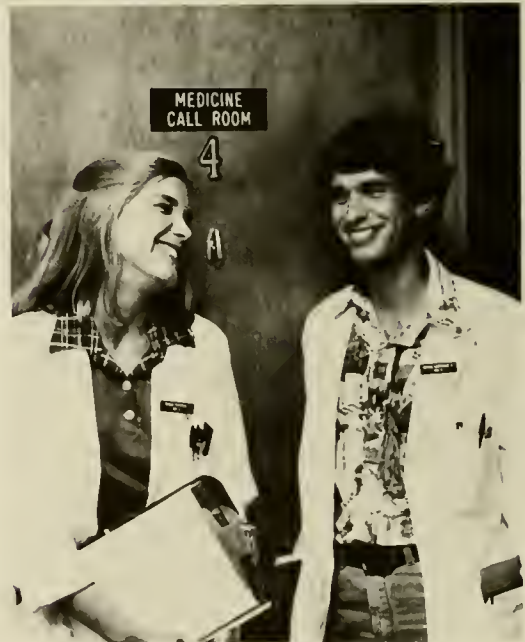

Larry, can I do the orchiectomy?

In search of the Pokornovirus.

What do you mean he didn't sign the permit?!

Someone left the tourniquet on too long.

Eat your heart out, Burt.

Call isn't that bad.

See, Don . . . it says right here, rectal tube for Staples.

Hi folks! I'm here to tell you about Billy Beer.

What population explosion??

Are you sure you want 10 months of Dermatology?

NATIONAL BOARDS
Part II — April 12-13, 1977

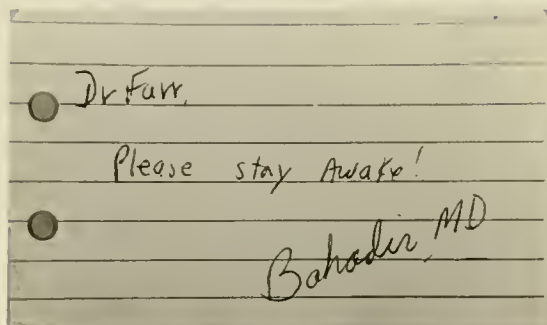

Erasing doesn't help.

I passed!

The Italian Stallion in training.

So that's how they do hair transplants.

Green Giant, how long have you had this problem with urgency?

The Stallion beginning the 10th round.

Jolly Green, we need a mid-stream clean catch for C & S

I don't know what causes them; but when I find out, I'm going to quit.

Down for the count.

She'll meet you in the call room in 5 minutes.

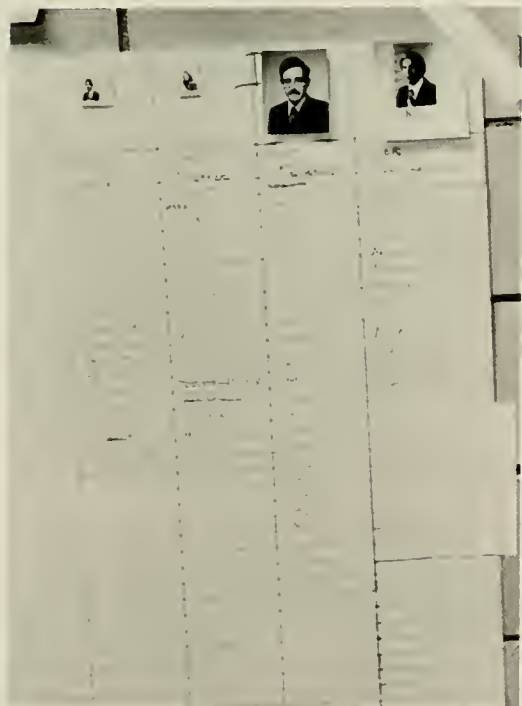

... and hematest stools X 3
...

Star City wonder.

I'm calling Spradlin . . .
this guy thinks he's Teddy Roosevelt.

Some people just can't keep up.

. . . damn Giant.
